

HCL becomes a member of the Wi-Fi Alliance

Wi-Fi Alliance Membership to Further Expand HCL Presence in the Wireless Community

Noida, September 27th, 2006 — HCL Technologies Ltd. ("HCL"), a leading global IT services provider, has recently become a member of the Wi-Fi Alliance.

The purpose of the Wi-Fi Alliance is to promote the IEEE 802.11 wireless networking standard by encouraging manufacturers of wireless networking products to achieve a high degree of interoperability among all products employing the standard and by promoting through a number of means the widespread adoption and use of products employing the IEEE 802.11 standard.

"As a strong supporter of interoperable solutions and 802.11 technology, we are confident that HCL will help our organization in achieving our mission of enhancing the user experience through product interoperability," said Wi-Fi Alliance Managing Director Frank Hanzlik. "We are looking forward to their participation in Alliance programs."

"The membership is an important milestone for the Wireless CoE (Center Of Excellence), enhancing the service offerings in the area of Wi-Fi based product development and verification & validation services. The membership will also enable our labs to go for the pre-certification body status and strengthen our existing certification & conformance services." G H Rao, Corporate Vice President - Engineering Solutions and Services, HCL.
