

HCL Technologies Showcases IT Solutions For the Casino Gaming Industry

Las Vegas, NV – Gaming Technology Summit (Booth #211) – May 23, 2007: Casino companies today are under intense pressure to continue to grow and prosper — while profit margins are continuously squeezed as they undertake significant development and expansion projects. This week at the Gaming Technology Summit in Las Vegas, HCL Technologies Ltd. (“HCL”), India’s leading global IT services company, is showcasing its unique breadth of technology solutions for commercial casino gaming and console gaming designed to help casino companies effectively expand into new and existing markets while reducing costs and time to market. The company has been an innovator in the casino industry, with solutions such as the Gaming Protocol Converter and Server Based Games.

HCL is a leading global sourcing company providing gaming companies with IT service offerings that span the entire lifecycle of gaming product development, testing, maintenance and support across business segments. The company’s Gaming Business Solutions Group (BSG) combines the domain capability, technical skills and market knowledge to provide innovative and cost-effective service to meet various customer needs.

“Over the years, HCL has built a vast reservoir of expertise in the gaming space, constantly evolving its service offerings,” said Anil Ganjoo, Vice President for Media & Entertainment, HCL Technologies. “Today we are engaged at a more comprehensive level with most of our gaming customers, partnering with them to provide a wide range of innovative technology solutions. With product engineering expertise and extensive infrastructure capabilities, coupled with more than eight years of experience in this market, we can not only provide robust IT services and complete lifecycle management of gaming product development, testing and maintenance, but also offer the market knowledge on compliance issues, cultural barriers and other obstacles that continue to challenge companies looking to expand into new markets.”

Today HCL provides services across the entire gaming spectrum, including casino gaming, online lottery, console gaming, instant lottery and mobile gaming. These services include concept/storyboard development, graphic design & artwork creation, game algorithm, game conversion, game testing, jackpot controllers, casino management systems, downloadable gaming systems and gaming protocols for the casino industry. Additionally, HCL has provided lottery services including instant lottery, online lottery and signage.
